MIYAZAKI · TAKACHIHO MONOGATARI KAMIGAMINOYADORUMORI

神々の宿る森

The creator crafted the frames to show deep appreciation for the awe-inspiring forests and gorges that house deities, nurture the earth and ocean, and inspire strength and piece of mind so Japanese can live a full and vigorous life.

素材へのこだわり

The selected Materials
The frames are made of camphor and cedar grown near the Mimi River in Miyazaki prefecture. These woods are highly valued for their colors and aroma. The materials used for the frames are the same materials used for Takachiho's kagura masks. Used for Shinto music and dance, the kagura mask is said to ward off evil spirits and bring good fortune if hung at home.

世界にひとつ

One of a kind
The Forest Frame is uniquely crafted by combining natural materials with landscape photography; therefore, each piece is unique and one of a kind to soothe your soul.

森の声を聞こう

The Forest Frame brings peacefulness and relaxation not only visually, but also through the sounds of the mystical forest, promoting the healing of the soul and mind relaxation via the internet and smartphones. JVC Kenwood has made this possible by installing microphones in the deep mountains at five locations, including Morotsuka village in Kyushu, Umazi village in Shikoku and Shirakamisanchi in the Tohoku region. They provide the sounds of forests such as chirping of wild birds and a whisper of wind in real time to provide a full sensory experience.
